Workplace Communication

Teams often focus on speaking clearly but underestimate the importance of listening. Active listening involves checking understanding, asking relevant questions, and noticing concerns that are not stated directly. These habits can prevent small misunderstandings from becoming costly conflicts.

1. Which TWO statements are supported by the text?

- A. Teams often focus on speaking clearly but underestimate the importance of listening.
- B. The main participants refused to take part.
- C. The project happened without any clear purpose.
- D. The text states that the activity was cancelled permanently.
- E. These habits can prevent small misunderstandings from becoming costly conflicts.

2. Which TWO conclusions can reasonably be inferred?

- A. The people involved are trying to solve a practical problem.
- B. The action described may create benefits beyond a single person.
- C. The activity had no effect on the community.
- D. The writer suggests that no planning was needed.
- E. The text proves that every participant disagreed.

3. Which TWO purposes best describe the text?

- A. to explain actions and their possible results
- B. to give instructions for a competitive sport
- C. to inform readers about an activity, issue, or initiative
- D. to entertain readers with an impossible fantasy
- E. to advertise an unrelated luxury product

4. Consider the word “speaking” in the text. Which TWO statements about it are most appropriate?

- A. a number showing the exact page
- B. a personal name that replaces the writer
- C. a word connected with the main topic
